The Eastern embrace of a sclerotic Europe means that the global role and influence of Britain is on the wane, says DEEPAK LAL

The Faustian embrace of a sclerotic Europe means that the global role and influence of Britain is on the wane, says DEEPAK LAL

In Russia? The poor. Against the poor. Who have been at the fiery altar. A nation which virtually ruled the world — will continue to shrink, says DEEPAK LAL

The basic substance of all imaginative writing is the struggle within man. The struggle between two forces: the desire for freedom and initiative. The desire for rule and submission. The struggle, for the part of a man to reconcile the two forces and to succeed in his creative work. The struggle, for the part of a man to reconcile the two forces and to succeed in his creative work.

In Russia? The poor. Against the poor. Who have been at the fiery altar. A nation which virtually ruled the world — will continue to shrink, says DEEPAK LAL

The basic substance of all imaginative writing is the struggle within man. The struggle between two forces: the desire for freedom and initiative. The desire for rule and submission. The struggle, for the part of a man to reconcile the two forces and to succeed in his creative work. The struggle, for the part of a man to reconcile the two forces and to succeed in his creative work.

The basic substance of all imaginative writing is the struggle within man. The struggle between two forces: the desire for freedom and initiative. The desire for rule and submission. The struggle, for the part of a man to reconcile the two forces and to succeed in his creative work. The struggle, for the part of a man to reconcile the two forces and to succeed in his creative work.

The basic substance of all imaginative writing is the struggle within man. The struggle between two forces: the desire for freedom and initiative. The desire for rule and submission. The struggle, for the part of a man to reconcile the two forces and to succeed in his creative work. The struggle, for the part of a man to reconcile the two forces and to succeed in his creative work.

The basic substance of all imaginative writing is the struggle within man. The struggle between two forces: the desire for freedom and initiative. The desire for rule and submission. The struggle, for the part of a man to reconcile the two forces and to succeed in his creative work. The struggle, for the part of a man to reconcile the two forces and to succeed in his creative work.

The basic substance of all imaginative writing is the struggle within man. The struggle between two forces: the desire for freedom and initiative. The desire for rule and submission. The struggle, for the part of a man to reconcile the two forces and to succeed in his creative work. The struggle, for the part of a man to reconcile the two forces and to succeed in his creative work.