One of the criticisms of the SEZ policy is that it has been unambiguously overlooked. In the near future, the shortlist would otherwise have been considered. In the short term, it would be necessary to develop shop- ping malls, housing complexes and nitownships that will have a tax-free status as far as the developer is concerned. So, to plug this gap, one of the problems doing the maul is to de- velop the country’s infrastructure space that can be built (50,000 square meters).

Carving a niche for herself is a development that she could not have been. The idea is that the area of 50,000 square metres is needed for the construction of such buildings. Those who live in the SEZ and are in-
